Campus Life

You can ask employees all around campus what they like about working at the College of Charleston, and you will get the immediate response “the people.” But following quickly will be the fact that we work on an amazingly beautiful, historic, urban campus that has equally amazing and diverse satellite properties. Our unique traditions combined with our innovative future plans make the College a stimulating environment for faculty, staff, students, parents, and the Charleston community. We are providing you with some information to quickly learn about the College.

Information Packet
Your red folder contains a few hardcopy documents to get you started in your knowledge of the College. The Fact Book will let you experience what our prospective students see. The College of Charleston magazine will introduce you to some of our alumni, current students, and faculty and staff. The Portico is our faculty and staff newsletter, which highlights interesting people, campus events, and campus updates.

Websites
Most schools, divisions, and departments have very informative websites. Take a look around using the site index on the top of the main page. Below are some that we find very informative.

http://www.cofc.edu/about/index.php The “About” tab on the home page provides a wealth of information, statistics, profiles, history, social media, etc.

http://studentaffairs.cofc.edu/ Student Affairs contains a variety of information on the divisions’ departments, programs and staff and services.

http://www.cofc.edu/academics The Academics page contains links to our academic programs, some featured programs, schools and departments, and academic resources for our students.

http://president.cofc.edu/ The President’s office has information on the strategic plan, student experiences, and community relations as well as an organizational chart.
